

Where can you get a gentle massage while drying off the water from a relaxing shower or bath and being pleasantly warmed, all at the same time? Simply by using handtowels and bathrobes made of terry towelling, you have the ideal complement to a perfect bath coupled with the soft fleecy feel of a wellness session.

Towelling products made by Vossen have, for 80 years, been a byword for sophisticated quality, absorbency and kindness to the skin. The harmonious combinations of terry towels and the matching bathrobes and bathmats ensure a general feeling of harmony throughout the bathroom, whether in fashion-conscious or classic colour combinations and designs. The long lifetimes of Vossen towelling products, in conjunction with environmentally friendly production techniques, are additional convincing aspects that speak in favour of spoiling yourself with terry towelling products from Vossen.

The generous choices afforded by Vossen's standard range enable anyone to pick and chose their favourite style. CALYPSO and CALYPSO STREIFEN are the undisputed Vossen classic ranges which have been in use at bath time in millions of homes the world over for several decades. The full range is subdivided into 6 different product sizes which are always available in 20 and 18 different colours respectively. The CALYPSO series is rounded off with a matching bathrug. VIENNA, the sophisticated series for the more fashion-conscious target group, features narrow, contrasting coloured striped borders in three main colours, melon, blue and bamboo, with a total of 16 different shades. Again, Vossen offers these products in the same six standard sizes, along with a wonderfully soft, fluffy bathrug. COUNTRY and COUNTRY STREIF are designs which will appeal particularly to demanding, fashion-conscious customers. The handtowel itself is made of supercombed ring yarn and features geometrical woven-in ribbing with graphic border designs. Here, too, the range of colour shades available is impressive: customers can compile their wish-list from a range of no less than 14 different colours. As a constant link between the items in the range there is the square which is also found on the high-quality bathrugs. The LEXINGTON handtowel series is one of the highest quality series available from Vossen. These heavy, voluminous, extremely absorbent towelling qualities will appeal without doubt to lovers of really sophisticated terry towelling. The fascinating chevron design is available in 12 subtle colour shades. A slightly lighter series, including 30% Lyocell, is the plain-dye PREMIUM

NOVA range. These are available in no less than 16 colours and owe their eye-catching effect to the woven-in special threads, which conjure up a flame effect, and the high quality border made of mercerised cotton thread with a matt & lustre effect. In contrast to those products, the QUADRATI UNO and QUADRATI DUE series are aimed more at the younger, fashion-responsive end of the market. Borders with fine, coloured woven-in squares are a typical characteristic of these series. The three border colours, green, blue and melon, have been chosen to match perfectly the 10 plain-dye colours available. Vossen has created the YOUNG GENERATION series specifically with the younger user in mind. Bright colours, high quality, up-to-the-moment relief designs and attractive value-for-money pricing make these terry towelling products the undisputed cuddle-up towels for the youngsters. The brilliant colours found in this series are down to the dyeing process which uses Indanthrene, which means that frequent washing and machine drying will not harm the fabric.
